Tutoring Experience

Over the past 15 years, I've guided students through complex historical narratives, focusing on A-Level and IB History. My expertise includes modern European, global, and political history, and I've supported students in preparing for competitive exams, extended essays, and university applications.

In addition to private tutoring, I've lectured at Belgian universities, mentoring undergraduate and master's students in modern history and political studies. This experience has equipped me to help students from diverse academic and cultural backgrounds succeed in rigorous curricula and develop critical analytical skills.
